Market Comment

Following renewed pressure on Greek bonds in the secondary market, the Athex experienced another falling session. The General Index lost 2.65%, but banks performance was not much worse than the GI as it has been the case in falling sessions for the last few months. Only Marfin Bank managed to avoid the fall among FTSE Athex 20 stocks, while on the other hand MIG posted the highest losses. Among mid caps we should note the fall of Alapis by 10% Turnover did not manage to rise above the currently usual level of €142 mn.

US markets ended mixed yesterday on financials stocks rebound after easing of fears about the Goldman Sachs probe, while technology stocks and airlines fell. European equity futures have opened higher this morning while the yields on Greek bonds are slightly lower than yesterday. The Greek market may open on positive grounds, however the session could prove volatile due to possible developments on the country's use of the combined EY-IMF support program.

An Income Rating is produced, based on the forecasted dividend yield for a 12-month period. This is then compared with the YtM of the 10-yr Greek Government bond, as shown below:

Income Measure	Definition	Quantification
Equity Div. Yield	Relative performance w.r.t. the 10-yr Greek Government bond	More than 50bps
		Within the range [-50bps, +50bps]

		No dividend
		High Div. Yields
